The Mystery of the Missing Coat of Arms

CABHC: CB 6-11 Box formerly containing the City of Belleville coat of arms, 1982

This bright red box was transferred to the Community Archives recently with other records from the basement store of the City of Belleville's Finance Department. It was empty, except for three gold-coloured caps and a 1982 letter to Mayor George Zegouras from the College of Arms in London, England, mentioning an enclosed set of armorial bearings. The bearings themselves, however, were not in the box.

It turns out that the missing document had been discovered recently by City Clerk, Matt MacDonald. It, too, was in the basement of City Hall.

It was today's Mayor of Belleville, Mitch Panciuk, who made the connection between the two items. Mayor Panciuk had seen the almost-empty box on a recent tour of the Community Archives and he recognized the three seals as being related to the three caps in the red box.

Nice to have another mystery solved, and what a beautiful document it is!
